

ALA Annual Conference, New Orleans, June 24-28, 2011
American Library Association-Allied Professional Association – ala-apa.org
PROGRAMS FOR THE PEOPLE

Negotiation: What Else is on the Table? – Monday, June 27, 4:00 – 5:30 pm, MCC 348

Laura is a strategic and creative powerhouse.

Her broad range of experience in developing innovative solutions geared toward tangible results has made Laura indispensable to The Singer Group's clients in the face of complicated problems and tough challenges.

With a special expertise in developing and conducting custom salary surveys, market-pricing analysis, internal equity assessments and compensation and classification programs for county and city governments, library systems and other public and non-profit organizations, Laura consistently delivers the new thinking and new tools that enable clients to achieve the greatest result possible. In fact, Laura is responsible for designing many of The Singer Group's proprietary position assessment instruments and job evaluation processes. Above all, she believes that no project can be successful without open and honest communication to employees.

When Laura is not busy evolving her own skill set and the field of HR, she spends her time supporting the human resources function within her own family, especially inspiring her child to reach for his full potential.